APD Ltd control systems can be found wherever reliable, intelligent control is needed. The industry sectors we work in are diverse and our team enjoy the technical challenge of developing control solutions, perfectly attuned to the needs of our customers across multiple sectors.

Over the past 25 years the technology used within control systems has changed beyond recognition. While the functionality and complexity of each APD system is unique, with differing terminologies and specific standards applied in different sectors; our approach and the fundamentals of solution design are common across most industries:

We Question. Investing the time at the beginning of a project allows us to...

Understand your Process or system fully, understanding fully the immediate and longer term goals. We then...

Design an efficient, safe, reliable and cost effective system with future expandability, and...

Test the system, carrying out as much 'offline' testing in our workshops as possible before we...

Implement the solution on your site and commission.

Support is available via a remote link, telephone or an on-site presence. We encourage regular...

Review, working with you to assess the installed system and to anticipate future requirements and to...

Improve the system and our services on an ongoing basis, building long term relationships with our customers.
